Brooks Third-Graders Commemorate Black History Month

Brooks Elementary School third-graders Natalie Soroka and Alex Smallis learned about famous African-Americans in preparation for their classroom's "Leaving a Stamp on History" project.

Students in Natalie Eaton's third-grade class at Brooks Elementary School created illustrations of famous African-Americans in honor of Black History Month.

Each student read a book about a noted African-American, wrote a summary of their choice and then drew an illustration of their famous American on the outline of a stamp in the project entitled "Leaving a Stamp on History."
