McCormick Elementary Holds Annual Math Night

McCormick Elementary School fourth-grader Tyler Farr weighed graham crackers in both standard and metric units to reinforce the math concept for the math PSSA exam.

McCormick Elementary School staff and students reviewed and reinforced important math skills for the Pennsylvania System of School Assessment (PSSA) exams during the elementary school's recent second annual Math Night event.

This year's theme, "Metric Mania," found 35 fourth and fifth-grade students participating in different math stations facilitated by McCormick teachers, who reviewed both metric and standard measurements via hands-on activities such as Fruit by The Foot measurement and graham cracker weighing.

The event was organized by fifth-grade teacher Shannon Martindale.
